This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. GENERAL PREFACE

As steps towards a complete catalogue of all the English[1] books printed up to the end of the year 1640, it is very desirable that lists of the books of this class preserved in College and Cathedral libraries, and other similar collections, should be compiled and printed. Experience has shown that almost every old library contains books or editions not yet registered in bibliographies or in the catalogues of the larger public libraries. Even when numerous other copies are known, those preserved in a particular library may be of special interest from their bindings or manuscript notes, or from the owners to whom they have belonged. The present series is an attempt on the part of the Bibliographical Society to encourage the publication of such lists by contributing, so far as its means permit, to the cost of paper and print, and by bringing the lists when printed under the notice of a very large proportion of the students most likely to be interested in them. Without a quite disproportionate expenditure on advertisements it is very difficult for books of this class to find purchasers, and librarians and library-authorities have perhaps been even more discouraged from publishing by this fact than by the trouble and expense of the work itself. Although the portion of its funds which the Bibliographical Society can devote to contributing towards the expense of paper and print will necessarily be small, it is nevertheless hoped that the certainty which it thus offers that the catalogues will be circulated and preserved, as part of the Society's publications, will cause some to be compiled which would otherwise have been unattempted. It is hoped, moreover, that while each catalogue must be to some extent a compromise between the wishes of the Society and those of the individual compiler, sufficient uniformity may be preserved in plan, as well as in size and form, to enable the contents of the different lists to be easily compared, when the time comes for examining what contribution each can make towards a general catalogue of early English printed books.

ALFRED W. POLLARD,
Hon. Sec.

ARCHBISHOP MARSH'S LIBRARY

THE fabric of Marsh's Library abuts on the east side of the burying ground of St. Patrick's Cathedral, Dublin. It was erected between 1694 and 1702, on ground belonging to the ancient archiepiscopal palace of St. Sepulchre's, by Narcissus Marsh, who was translated from Dublin to Armagh in the latter year; from this circumstance it has been often spoken of as the Library of St. Sepulchre's.

In 1707 an Act of Parliament was passed for 'settling and preserving a Publick Library for ever in the House for that purpose built by' Marsh. It is commonly said that the nucleus of the library was 'that very valuable Collection of choice and excellent Books,' 9,512 in number, 'besides many pamphlets,' which had been purchased for £2,500 in 1704 by Marsh from the executors of Stillingfleet, Bishop of Worcester; but it is natural to suppose that Marsh's own collection (which included many belonging to Michael Jephson, a former Dean of St. Patrick's) had never left the building, and it is certain that the books of Élie Bouhéreau, the first library-keeper, had been there from the first. Élie Bouhéreau was a very learned physician, who fled to England from La Rochelle after the revocation of the Edict of Nantes. Archbishop Marsh took him under his protection. Bouhéreau took Holy Orders, and 'in consideration of his being made keeper of the said library . . . lodged . . . in the said house' the books which he had brought from France, about 2,200 in number. Many of these had originally belonged to Tanaquil Faber, or Tanneguy le Févre, father of the celebrated classical scholar Madame Dacier. To the collections of Marsh, Bouhéreau, and Stillingfleet there were added in 1745 about 3,000 volumes, the bequest of John Stearne, Bishop of Clogher, and since then the library has been enriched by donations and purchase, as far as the very scanty endowment will permit, and at present it contains nearly 22,000 volumes of printed books, and over 200 volumes of MSS. For about 150 years Marsh's Library was the only really public library in Dublin. It has consequently suffered much from the depredations of book stealers; in fact up to 1828 1,200 volumes had been lost, many of them books of great rarity. Speaking generally, Stillingfleet's books are in the cases A, B 1, B 2—Q; those of Bouhéreau in room R; Marsh's books (he left his MSS. to the Bodleian) in the cases A 3, B 3, &c.; and Stearne's in A 4, B 4, &c.

Fuller accounts of Marsh's Library will be found in Some Worthies of the Irish Church, by G. T. Stokes, D.D., London, Hodder & Stoughton, 1900 (a posthumous work), and in an article in The Library Association Record, March, 1899, by the present Librarian, Newport J. D. White, D.D.
